MGERMAN COUNTER ATTACKS (BRITISH POSITIONS IN BEL-GIUM FAIL.-HEAVY RAINS FALLING.

OBSTAGLES OVERCOME

"No Man's Land."

The present battle between Dixmude and Lizerne was "No Man's Land." within whose borders lay marshes and morasses, which in winter months are impassable. This formidable natural barrier was rendered still stronger by the inundation of large areas by release of waters from the canal. Below this section opposing lines follow either bank of the Year canal and then went on to the Year canal and then went on to the Year solient, face to face, but with the Garmians, holding the dominating high land about the salient. The Dixmade-Lizerne section of the front is wilderness partly inundated, and deserted farms dotted with pools of brackish water and cut by drainage ditches. There are but few remaining civilian inhabitants in this "No Man's Land." Crumbling cottage walls and an occasional roofless church rose above the flats.

A Problem.

A Problem.

Ypres salient itself furnished as masty a problem as could be presented to an attacking army. The country here is saucer shaped and the Germans have held the lip of this saucer. All the lower lying land within this dish has been dominated by the enemy, who could send a stream of shell and machine gun fire into the troops and supply columns advancing across the salient.

The situation was rendered still more difficult by the presence within the saucer of a large number of waterways. The difficulty, however, was overcome by British engineers, who built seventeen bridges in the face of terrific gunific. Similar and equally remarkable work was done by French engineers, who were forced to bridge the Yser. A Problem. engineers, the Yser.

remarkable work was done by Franch engineers, who were forced to bridge the Yser.

Early in June rumors of the impending attack began to find their way to German ears. Gradually the rumors assumed certainty and the Germans began toverishly to strengthen their lines, pouring large numbers of fresh forces into Glanders and bringing up all available guns.

The surrounding country was evacuated of civilians and stripped for the conflict. The Germans were unfable to get more than a fragmentary with the conflict. The Germans were unfable to get more than a fragmentary of the story of the preparation of the allies.

Day after day the building up of new armies continued under cover.

Enormous numbers of great guns were mounted on concrete foundations which are today turning the German front into an inferno of death, were brought up while the enemy watched with unseeing eyes. Long lines of dreaded tanks took the road, and the living monsters crawled clumsily but persistently northward to take their place in the allied battle line.

Torrential Rains.

Paris, Aug. 1.—After the magnificent success of the French and British in Belgium yesterday, says the official statement issued today by the French war department, the entente troops, in a torrential rainstorm, consolidated the positions which they had captured.

in a torrential rainstorm, consolidated the positions which they had captured. After several days of artilery preparation, the Germans this morning attacked the positions on the left hank of the Meuse river, in the Verbank of the French had captured from them July 17. The Germans were only able to reach certain advance elements of the French first line, where they were stopped.

Copenhagen, Aug. 1.—The German semi-official preliminary report on the British offensive printed today under the headlines "Before Great Intanty Attack," stated the German artillery despite the terrific bombardment and lavish use of gas, had not let up, and was successfully combatteries were obliged to pause from exhaustion on the 29th until midday, when they attempted to escape punishment by smoke screens.

The Berlin Lokal Auzeiger's military critic says the offensive was delayed and weakened by the submacine campaign, and England consequently no longer is superior in artillery and aviators.

Major Mohrat, in the Tages Zeitung, latimated the day before the attack hat General Haig had been unable to offect adequate infantry proparation and was afraid to attack.

[EY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Butte, Mont., Aug. 1.-Frank Little,

nember of the executive board of the I. W. W. and prominent in labor troubles in Arizona, was taken from a lodging house early today by masked men and hanged to a railroad trestle on the outskirts of the city. His body was cut down at 8 a. m. by Chief of Police Jerry Murphy, who identified it. Little, in a recent speech here, referred to United Stats troops as "Uncle Sam's staff in uniform."

Since his arrival in Butte recently from Globe, Arizona, Little had made several speeches in which he attacked the government and encouraged the men to shut down the mines of the Butte district. His record was under investigation by federal authorities. On the other hand, the report was current that Little was employed by a detective agency, and one theory is that he was the victim of the radical element of whom he appeared to be a member. W. They will arrive at Camp Douglas at noon, and will immediately go into camp and active training.

arrive at Camp Douglas at noon, and will immediately go into camp and active training.

A special troop train conveying both the local company and Company L of Beloit will leave the Line City at six o'clock, picking up Company M here, then proceeding to Madison, where Company H of Monroe will foin them for the trip to Camp Douglas. Seven coaches and a baggage car will comprise the transport from here to Madison, where three more coaches will be added to accommodate the Monroe boys, who will proceed to that place via the Illinois Central, marching across Madison to the Northwestern station in time to join forces with the other units.

Company M will have to go into camp without Captain Caldwell as commanding officer. In answer to a telegram from headquarters this morning, the captain will leave for Camp Douglas this evening for pre-timinary muster and physical examination and will then report at Washington to receive special training in trench warfare at the war college. This order comes as a complete surprise and necessitates the transfer of all details of entrainment and movement of the unit to First Lieutenant Fred Rau, who will have command of the company during the captain's absence.

Baraboo orchard without the use of glasses:

"It was my good fortune to visit M. F. Foley's orchard, near the city of Baraboo, Wis., eight years planted. The twenty-seven acres of orchard was set 20x20 feet, which is too close. This orchard is on an eastern slope, soil alluvial clay. It has been bearing four consecutive years. Last year Mr. Foley soil at the railway station four carloads of apples that had no blemishes, neither codding moth, curcutlo or scab, soil at $2.75 per barrel, and the same trees are loaded this year, which is the fourth consecutive year of bearing full crops. Mr. Foley has sprayed for worms and fungus diseases every year since the trees were set, fruit or no fruit.

Russet. Ben Davis, Windsor and some others.

"He has an orchard adjoining this of thirty-seven acros, set 28x28 feet, mostly Salome, Duchess, N. W. Greening, Mcintosh, Delcious and Fameuse, and Mr. Folcy has an orchard three miles east on the same range of hills of thirty acres, set last spring, 1,600 trees, and lost less than ten. In this orchard every hole was dug with dynamite, and with Mr. Foley's experience he is bound to make it a success.

"He cultivates two years, seeds to clover, and in three years plows it all under and keeps the ground in the best of condition and does not take off any hay or other crops.

MARINES HAVE TO LEARN
HOW TO DO FUNNY THINGS

How to light a fire without matches is an important part of the training given to United States Marines at this station. The primitive flint and steel, used long ago by our forefathers, and the old "wood fiction" method borrowed from the Indians have been revived, so that the sea soldlers may dispense with matches when dampness renders them useless.

U. S. marines in the tropics can start a fire almost instantly by using a hollow piece of bamboo. This is done by slitting the bamboo, stuffing it with dry moss, and drawing a stick to and fro across it as a violinist uses his how. These resourceful world-wide soldiers are expecting to find a substitute for the useful bamboo, in France.

JANESVILLE FAIR

Fastest Horses Listed.

Entries for the horse races at the Janesville fair this year closed today with the largest aggregation of fast horses that has been entered in a local moret for many a year. Variety has been aimed at in the racing card and fans about the county will have an opportunity of seeing everything from a 2:05 pace for a thousand dollar purse to a novelty mule race, in which the last animal in wins the stake. In the three early closing events, the 2:05 pace, the 2:10 pace, and the 3:14 frot, some of the fastest horse flesh in the country has been entered. Colleen, the first horse on the card in the 2:05 pace, has won several races this year in fast company, and comes here with a fine record. Adioo Guy has stepped the distance in 2:02% while Auto Zumbro is listed at 2:02%. The track record will undoubtedly go by the boards, according to the directors of the fair, who have worked ac diligently in getting together this fast card.

It didn't take a batting punch to put the Red Sox at the top, even though they did have the powerful This Speaker. Pitchers, fine fielding and fast thinking gave them their edge. They've still got most of it. A crack in the fielding is the most noticeable part of their fissure—which is scarcely noticeable as such.

MISS DORFNER TO WIN MORE TITLES?

Miss Olga Dorfner.

Miss Olga Dorfner, the Philadelphia girl swimming champ, is regarded as America's one hope of capturing the swimming titles now held by Miss Fannie Durack, the Australian. Miss Dorfner recently lowered Miss Durack's record for 500 yards with the time of 7:32 1-5. The American girl, who stars chiefly in the sprints, is planning to take several other records from Miss Durack.

DAY EVENING. Members of Associated Press. Member of Audit Bureau of Circulations. Member of Wisconsin Dully League.

These hot days have discovered a sad deficiency in the civic government in not making provision for keeping the bathing beaches open after supper. It would not cost a material sum to have an attendant there and dressing rooms open so that those who are not forward. to have an attendant there and dressing rooms open so that those who are not fortunate enough to own an automobile, when they can dress at home and motor to the heach, can enjoy the cooling influences of the river waters. THE LIQUOR PROBLEM.

It would appear as though congress was going to grapple with that liquor problem without gloves. The conference committee does not mince matence committee does not mince matters, they grasp the whole situation by the nap of the nock and kick the squirming dog out of the halls of splenty. They must make up for this loss of revenue and are doing so by making beer and light wines pay for the privileges formerly enjoyed by Demon Rum. Meanwhile the nation walts and gasps for breath and wishes sometiming definite would be done. That the liquor element should pay is not unexpected. They should and the new provisions of the law make the brewerles also pay. Of course these latter have recourse to the ultimate consumer but they had best beware or even their privileges will be curtabled under the power given the president.

SAFE FARMING

ORGANIZE MORE SHEEP CLUBS

By P. G. HOLDEN.

OT only should there be a bunch of sheep on every farm, but every community should have one or more sheep clubs. No branch of live stock raising is more interesting or profitable to boys and girls than the raising of sheep.

Calf clubs, pig clubs, corn clubs and potato clubs are doing much to make young people more than self-supporting. The experience boys and girls are galaing through being active members in these clubs will make them self-reliant, resourceful and prosperous men and women. The boy or girl who owns something will become a good citizen.

Sheep clubs provide an additional opportunity to impress upon our children the value of growing things. When a boy owns a few sheep or lambs, he will stay on the farm. He will not want to leave home and seek a job in

Mean Better Communities.

The boy or girl who has a pair of ewes will become a factor in the community. They will help bind the community to the soil, and the only permanently people are those who are close to the soil.

Any Boy or Girl Would Love Pets Like These-They, ceeds of the increase.

Mean Profit as Well as Picasure. Sheep raising is inexpensive and very profitable. No animal returns more for the feed consumed than sheep. They do not require as much grain as pigs or calves. They may be pastured on hillsides, or timber or cutoyer lands or along gulleys or roadsides. A boy can cut enough weeds and grass with a scythe to feed his lambs through the winter. In sheep countries club members should be given the orphan lambs that makes your line last longer, as well otherwise would be killed or starve to death. Last year, members o clubs in the state of Washington raised over 1,000 orphan lambs. One boy raised 42, mainly on milk and by-products until they were old enough to graze. Then he herded them on the sweet clover along the irrigation ditches. One girl is caring for 58 orphans. Sheep clubs will do much to awaken a nation-wide sentiment against lawless dogs. When the boys and girls own some sheep, the dog must go, or he must remain at home where he belongs.

The average boy or girl wants a pet and there is no better pet than a lamb. Many a successful sheep grower got his start by having a pet lamb.

Sheep clubs will do much to solve economical problems in agriculture.

Millions of acres of nonproductive land can be profitably used to pasture sheep. Weeds, that now mean waste, can be turned into money and the land put in better shape for cultivation.

Not only will sheep raising assist materially in increasing the production of food, but it will increase the production of wool, which will be in great demand for clothing for our soldiers and for all of us, during the present

BAIT-CASTING FOR BEGINNER.

My Dear Buck: For your practice work or rather the back-yard casting, before you try out the real stuff, all you need of your bait-casting tackle is your rod, steel or split bamboo; 5 or 51/2 footer as you prefer; 50-yard spool of waterproof soft square braided silk No. 6 line quadruple multiplying reel and a cast ing plug.

Joint your rod and place the real in the reel seat right above the grip, with the reel on top of the rod, reel handle to the right. Run the line through the tip and guides, wind it evenly on the reel and loop on the plug at the end.

At a distance of say 30 feet from where you intend to stand while making the cast, peg down a small piece of paper, say about eight inches aquare, for a target. Think this is the home of a fine frisky bass, it adds to the interest of the game.

You are all ready now, get in the box, 30 feet from the target and face it. Take the rod in your right hand, let the plug hang down about six inches from the tip, reel on top with the thumb pressing on the line woun on the spool of the reel, the fingers of course around the grip of the rod Before bringing the rod back over the shoulder to start the cast, twist the wrist to the left enough to bring the top of the reel towards your body the spool of the reel nearly vertical.
In this position swing the rod back over the right shoulder until the plus hangs on a line with your belt, the rod will then be at about a 45 degree angle with the ground and your hand near your right ear. This much is for position, the cast starts from this point, wherein it differs from fly-cast ing which starts from the first up ward sweep.

Keep Thumb Pressure on Reci. From this position swing the red forward with a swift firm sweep, increasing the speed as the rod swings forward all this time the thumb pressure stays on the line wound on the reel. As the rod sweeps to a perpendicular position, release the thumb pressure—but not entirely and out shoots the plug carrying the line from the reel. Keep your eye on the plug, although it's a hundred to one shot that you will watch the reel instead. When the plug is still in the air, just before it hits the ground, press the thumb down firmly on the reel, which stops it from revolving. If you fail to do this, old man, the reel will keep on turning from its momentum, and having no heavy plug in the air to pull it along, the line will snarl up on the reel and you will be introduced to your first "back-lash," with which you will become well acquainted, any way, as you get along in the game.

genize sheep clubs in If your plug did a pretty flight their communities. They should enable each club straight up in the air, you released member to buy a ewe your thumb pressure before the rod was perpendicular, if it did a Brodie right down into the ground in front of you, then you failed to release the ewes are bred this fall. thumb pressure soon enough. Remember this point, the thumb pressure is never entirely removed from the line on the reel, the lighter pres sure on the line keeps a "pull" on the bait and prevents back-lashes. "Bad cess to 'em." Always jam the thumb down hard just before the bait lands. stop the rod in its sweep when it is much higher than the target and keep your eyes on the plug. As it flies out and settles, slowly lower the tip of the rod, keeping the plug, line and rod on a line as much as possible, as it saves friction on the guides and as increases the distance to your cast. Reel Line in Smoothly.

You have now made your first cast and upon how carefully you reel in your line depends the success or failure of your next cast. Shift the rod to the left hand, grasping it above the reel, circling it from the underside, with the line between the forefinger and the thumb which guides the line across the spool of the reel and back again until it is all reeled in. Don't let it pile up on the ends of the spool, which it has an ornery habit of do-ing, or build up into a hump in the middle. If you do, you can check off the next cast as a dead one.

Try to reel it in as level as possi-Of course while actually fishing you will always watch your bait while reeling in the line, especially when you are casting among lily pads and windfalls, but in the practice work watch the reel. This will save you lots of time and fish later. After a little practice you can watch the plug, remembering not to slow up the thumb and finger in guilding the line smoothly onto the reel, or it will plie up before you know it and bring back your old friend, Mr. G. W. Buck-Lash, DIXIE.

MORE DRESSING ROOM FOR ISLAND BEACH

Mayor Gets Petition Signed By 500 and Immediatey Acts to Insure Accommodations for the Bathers.

About five hundred people voiced their objection to the improper bathing facilities at Goose Island in a petition presented to Mayor Fathers this morning. The demands of the petitioners will be complied with and Mayor Fathers has taken immediate action to have installed proper dressing rooms for the convenience of the bathers.

laction to have instance proper in grooms for the convenience of the bathers.

Although the present beach and two small dressing rooms at Goose Island are for use of the school children only in connection with the play-ground activities under the supervision of Director Hemming, it is planned to turn it into a municipal bathing beach to be kept open until 3:30 o'clock every evening.

Mayor Fathers has already made arrangements with a contractor for the erection of two dressing rooms. They will be built stockade style, without roofs, measuring about eight feet by thirty-two feet and eight feet hat they will be finished for use Saturday afternoon.

ORDER CHANGES ON

Electric Company Must Remove Flashboards at Once and Remodel Part of Dam by October 15th.

Definite orders pertaining to the changes on the Indian Ford dam agreed to in a conference before the railroad commission by representatives of the property owners whose lands had been inundated, and the Janesvilel Electric company, were handed down today by the commission, requiring the removal of the flashboards and all other obstructions above the crest of the concrete structure of the dam within ten days. The order further stipulates that before October fifteenth the forty foot section at the eastern end of the dam be rebuilt with flood gates, in place of the some section.

The flashboards referred to, are a serier of planks fastened to the top of the concrete, constituting in substance an increase to the height of the dam of about eighteen inches. With these removed, and with flood gates provided, it is thought that danger from excessive high water to farm lands in the vicinity of Lake Koshkonong and certain low-lying sections bordering on the river, will be eliminated.

News Notes from Movieland

Marion Davies, now completing her first film play, "Runaway Romany," is reported to be wavering in her determination to return to the speaking stage after her brief excursion into the picture field. She is most enthusiastic over the co-operation of her associations in the production, all of whom, she says, have made her feel at home in her new surroundings.

Miss Davies is admittedly one of the most beautiful of the younger stage favorites, and critics who have seen some of her pictures already completed prophesy that she will be a sensation on the screen.

It is his contention that the average Russian is very artistic and has a great sense of appreciation.

forty cents a square foot, what could they do?
Suddenly the face of Paddles Perriwinkle lighted up from the inside with a great idea.
"Something for nothing makes the world go 'round!" he cried happily but eniquatically. The next day five hundred newspapers all over the country published this small advertisement: "Something for nothing. The man, woman or child who writes the longest letter on any subject to Paddles Perriwinkle. Oshbash, Maine, within a week, will be awarded a solid German silver sandwich holder."
The next day the letters began pouring in, some of them four hundred pages, and by the end of the week the Sidesenback mills had enough stock on hand to keep them going for nine years.

A timely picture dealing with the boy scouts and starring dainty little Ann Pennington, star of the Ziegfeld Follies as well as of previous Famous Players-Paramount pictures, is the "Little Boy Scout" in which Miss Pennington take the role of Justina Howland and later appears as a boy scout herself. "The Little Boy Scout" is to be the atraction at the Apollo theater on Monday, Aug. 6. This clever picture is given as a benefit for Boy Scout Troop Four to help defray their expenses of going into camp at Lake Delavan. It is a worthy cause and should be generously supported. In addition to "The Little Boy Scout" picture, Victor Moore, the famous comedian, will be shown in one of his comedies. We that live apart from strife,

The Power Of Decision

Frances Nelson, greatest of emotional stars, shows to better advantage in "The Power of Decision" than in any of her screen productions. She was sublime in "One of Many" as the employed gril who took the "wrong road" so that she might save the life of her invalid mother.

And now in "The Power of Decision," she is seen as a girl who tried to be truthful and upright and faced a desperate crisis in wrestling with her own past. She had to make a decision—to decide whether she would follow the "right road" or the "wrong road."

This play is one that carries s own lesson. It is one that its own lesson. It is will be talked about.

RABBIT AS WAR FOOD PROBABLE IN U. S. A.

Robbits may become an essential source of meat supply for America during the war.

The bunny has proven the salvation of some districts of stricken Europe, and there is no reason, experts say, why Americans cannot practice conservation of food through increaser production of rabbits.

Belgian hares are said to furnish the best meat and it has been proven that they can be raised at a cost not to exceed six cents a pound in large numbers on small space. If lawre clippings and other waste green stuffs are fed the rabbits can be produced even cheaper. They can be raised in large numbers in city back yards as well as on country places, where they are less desirable unless kept away from young trees and garden stuffs.

No Relief-Mrs. Brown Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio. - "For years I suffored so sometimes it seemed as though f could not stand it any longer. It was all in my lower organs. At times I could hardly walk, for if I stepped on a little stone I would almost faint. One day I did faint and my husband was sent for and the doctor came. I was taken to the hospital and stayed four weeks but when I came home I would faint just the same and had the same pains.

A friend who is a nurse asked me to try Lydia F. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it that very day for I was suffering a great deal. It has already done me more good than the hospital. To anyone who is suffering as I was my advice is to stop in the first as I was my movies to bottle of Lydie E. Pinkham's Vegotable Compound before you go home." -- Mrs. W. C. CHAPTER VI.

Once started and given its push, the gray roadster drifted backward from the rullroad crossing and kept on until the trailroad crossing and kept on until the trailroad erossing and kept on until the row. Will you tell me what you're it came to rest in the sag at the turn needing?"

In the road. Running to overtake it, "Oh!" she exclaimed, with a little in the road. Running to overtake it, Smith found that the young woman was still trying ineffectually to free herself. In releasing the clutch her dress had been caught, and Smith was glad enough to let the extricating of the caught skirt and the cranking of the engine serve for a breath-catching recovery.

When he stepped back to "tune" the spark the young woman had subsided into the mechanician's seat and was retying her vell with fingers that were not any too steady. She was small but well-knit; her halr was a golden brown and there was a good deal of it; her eyes were set well apart, and in the bright morning sunlight they were a slaty gray-of the exact shade of the motor vell she was rearranging. Smith had a sudden conviction that he had seen the wide-set eyes before; also the straight little nose and the halfboyish mouth and chin, though where he had seen them the conviction could give no present hint.
"I sup-pup-suppose I ought to say something appropriate," she was beginning, half breathlessly, while Smith stood at the fender and grinned.

"You don't have to say anything. It's been a long time since I've had a chance to make such a bully grand-stand play as this." And then: "You're Colonel Baldwin's daughter, aren't you?"

She nodded, saying: "How dld you know?"

She did not seem to take it amiss the Timanyoni." that he was making her eyes a basis for comparisons. She was her father's only son, as well as his only daughter, and she divided her time pretty evenly in trying to live up to both sets of requirements.

"You have introduced me; we-won't you introduce yourself?" she said, when a second crash of the shifting freight train spent itself and gave her an opening.

"I'm Smith," he told her; adding:

"But you can't!" she protested; "you can't do it alone! And, besides, they are on the other side of the river, and you can't get anywhere with the car. You'll have to go all the way back to Brewster to get across the river!"

It was just here that he stole an other glance at the very-much-alive little face behind the motor veil; at the firm, round chin and the resolute slaty-gray eyes.

"I suppose I ought to take you to the camp," he said. "But you may go along with me, if you want to-and are not afraid.

She laughed in his face. "I was born here in Timanyoni, and you haven't been here three weeks do you think I'd be afraid to go any where that you'll go?"

"We'll see about that," he chuckled, matching the laugh; and with that he let the clutch take hold, sent the car rolling gently up to the level of the railroad embankment and across the rails of the main track, and pulled it around until it was headed fairly for the upper switch. Then he put the motor in the reverse and began to back the car on the siding, steering so that the wheels on one side hugged the inside of one rail.

"What in the world are you trying to do?" questioned the young woman who had said she was not afraid.
